

Surgery Critical Care

Develop proficiency in the diagnosis and management of critically ill patients, to include appropriate interventions and procedures.

Create, design, implement, and analyze research projects.

Expand and develop the ability to teach associates, residents in training, and other critical care personnel.

Learn to administer and manage a critical care unit with particular emphasis on allocation and utilization of resources and on ethical principles in the delivery of healthcare.